On August 17 the management of the N.S.R. and S.H.N.R. issued a confidential order to its employees stating that "spies" of a certain clique had been active at the North Station recently for the purpose of reporting on the movements of Chinese notables and military activities. In conclusion the order instructed all employees not to associate with suspicious characters or to give information to strangers, under the penalty of dismissal followed by legal action.

In addition, the North Station Branch of the Public Safety has, with effect from August 17, increased its plain clothes staff at the North Station from 3 to 17. The Woosung-Shanghai Defence Commissioner's Headquarters has detailed eight detectives and 10 scouts for duty in the vicinity of the North Railway Station.

Date September 14, 1936.

Subject. Chinese Police and Military Authorities establish joint office at North Railway Station - Japanese enquiries

Made by D.I. Sih Tse-liang Forwarded by M. J. Smith, D.S.

It is reported that at 9.30 a.m. September 13, four Japanese in foreign clothes were at the North Station and vicinity enquiring among the porters regarding the location of the joint office established by the Chinese military and police authorities (Vide I.R. 11/9/36). Failing to obtain the necessary information, they left at about 10.30 a.m.

At 4.30 p.m. three other Japanese also in foreign clothes came to the North Station and made similar enquiries. They left at 5.30 p.m. without obtaining the information.

In consequence of these activities, the Chinese Authorities are conducting investigations into the matter, with a view to ascertaining from what source the Japanese obtained the information. It is learned that preparations are being made to change the name and address of the Joint Office.

Chinese Police and Military Authorities establish joint office at North Railway Station

A joint office to maintain order at the North Railway Station was established on September 10 by the Bureau of Public Safety, the Railway Police, the N.S. & S.H.N. Railway Administration, and the Woosung-Shanghai Garrison Commissioner's Headquarters. The office is situated in the headquarters of the Special Kuomintang for the Shanghai Nanking and Shanghai Hangchow Ningpo Railways at the North Station and is in charge of Hsu Hsueh-chi (胡學居), Commander of the Second Regiment of the local Peace Preservation Corps.
